The application uses OpenAI's "Whisper" model. This produces the transcription as a plain text file, hence the block of text.

My hope is that by offering this transcription – however accurate it may be done by a machine/ AI – will help you, the listener. I'd love to offer full, proper transcription some day, but that is not feasible at this time. Thank you for listening and reading. I hope you enjoy the show and that this document was helpful. Hello everybody and welcome to chapter select the announcement for season 3.

It's not actually season 3. I am one of your hosts Max Roberts and I'm joined as always by Logan Moore. Hello Logan. Hi I think you mean season 3e. Ah Logan do I?

Season 3e is correct because it's all about Banjo-Kazooie. That's right we are playing all four, not five, but all four Banjo-Kazooie games.

Sorry everyone.

Logan did not want to play the critically acclaimed

Banjo Pilot for the Game Boy Advance.

- Published by THQ, not THQ Nordic, dead THQ.

Actually, I don't know how that works out really,

but yes, no Banjo Pilot.

- I mean it was THQ before the U-Draw and that debacle,

but it was still developed by Rare.

Anyway, no Banjo Pilot.

We are playing Banjo Kazooie, Banjo Tooie,

Nuts and Bolts, and Grunty's Revenge,

the other THQ published Game Boy Advance Banjo game, which also had a cell phone port at the time,

but we will be playing the Game Boy Advance versions on our analog pockets, so that'll be fun.

The episode order is what you come to know here for Chapter Select, where we bounce back and forth between a series of games.

So it'll be Banjo-Kazooie's the first episode, which will be out a week from this particular episode, followed by Nuts and Bolts two weeks later, and then Banjo-Tooie two weeks after that.

And finally, wrapping up this season three will be Grunty's Revenge.

So that's kind of the flow.

It's a shorter season in quantity, but we've been working on this one and some other ideas for a long time.

And Logan, you're the guy that came up with Banjo-Kazooie.

Yeah, well I think- You invented the whole series.

Yeah, I am the creator of Banjo-Kazooie.

No, uh, yeah I don't know, I realized I think the main reason we wanted to do this, and I think maybe we talked about this on one of the episodes that we've recorded already, but I've never played all of these games.

Like, I'm a huge fan of this series, and I think you are too, but we've never actually played every single entry, which is kind of funny in retrospect, so I felt like it seemed like a good opportunity to actually cross those all off my list of games that game franchises that I've played. Kind of similar to I think how what we did with Paper Mario where we fans of Paper Mario or maybe we were still are. We're fans of a particular Paper Mario style. Yeah we like those games and we always said like oh I want to try to play all the Paper Mario games and sort of similar thing here like not only did we think it would be good for a discussion and good for a season this show but it's also kind of I think I had series we've both been meaning to completely play at some point or another so works out well yeah I I never owned the banjo-kazooie games as a kid it was always something like the neighbor kids had the only one I ever owned was Grunty's Revenge on the Gameboy bought that out of Costco one time talked my mom into that so I've I've really never played them and the other great thing about these this particular series is it's very accessible being on the Xbox now and it's gorgeous and you know the 4k HDR 60s so the whole the whole deal there it's such an accessible franchise especially for such an old series where the prices are a little ridiculous for some of those N64 games. I can't imagine nuts and bolts selling really high right now. I don't think so. I mean you bought Grunty's Revenge and what was it like 30 bucks? I did buy a physical copy of Grunty's Revenge and like yeah it was like 30 dollars I believe so in the year 2022 I mean it's not as bad as Tomás buying Color Splash for full 60 dollars on the Wii U and and we'll talk about it on uh on the nut on the Grunty's Revenge episode we haven't recorded it at the time we're recording this yet but uh you and I both have analog pockets so I think we don't necessarily mind splurging and getting some of those old games so we have something to play on the pocket so that's been fun yeah it'll be it'll it'll be good to dive into that and record those episodes.

So in this particular season, we also, I think,

have at least ratio to episodes.

We have the most guess to episode ratio that we've had so far.

So that is really fun to bring all these voices who haven't been on the show yet so far to come in and discuss the Banjo-Kazooie series, the core, the first three games.

Well, I guess the core Banjo games will be discussed

Grunty's Revenge will just be Logan and me.

Unless there's a huge Grunty's Revenge fan out there who wants to talk to us before that episode goes up, but I doubt that.

But that's the plan for this season three-E, as Logan reminded me at the top of the show.

So thank you so much for checking this out.

The first episode's gonna be next week right here in this feed.

You can follow the show on Twitter @ChapterSelect.

You can follow Logan on Twitter @Mormon12 and myself @MaxRoberts143.

For more information on this season, you can go to chapterselect.com/season3 or just go to chapterselect.com to see all of the previous seasons we've done, which is a total of four.

You can be like, "What about you're on season three?"

The power of season zero, everybody.

So thank you all for listening, and we'll see you next week.

Thank you.
